FRIDAY EVE'G., SEPTEMBER 19.

THE DIGESTIBILITY OF CLAMS - While everybody is orjoying, or preparing to enjoy oysters-toast, panned, broiled and scived on toast, friesseed, escallaged, stewed with celery, the convenient common stew, or even the not easily digestive fry, the Hartford Times has these good words to say for the common clam:

The small, round, hard shell clam is by po means driven out of the market, or away from the table, by that big, bloated member of the family, the oyster. Clams weigh are good in summer, are even better through the fall and winter. There is a common prejudice against clams that they are indigestible. If they are so, it is because they are improperly couked; they are stewed whole into tough leather, the cook faceying she must serve soles, or other marine monstrosity, it stend of clams. Or they are baked to cinders, as at some of the popular claim bakes, where they are only di-gested by such mechanical means as by pouring ioto the stomach whole pints of strictly prime Bourbon berzine, as the ostrich swallows railread spikes and bits of junk buttles to assist in cutting up its tough food. Clams should never be stewed, but out up finely and gently simmer ed. But the royal way of serving the clam is to roast it on bars or a gridiron over a bright grate fire-the quicker the better-and the minute it "sizz'en." open it, pan it, and let it simmer a little in its own saved juice and a bit of butter. The claim thus cooked is a grateful sale low by creature that will repay all the attention shown it. And so served, far from being indigestible. it is as tender as the swan song in Lobergeic.

$20 PER TON OF 2000 LBS. $20 I am now prepared to furnish the above valuable tertilizer at the low price of $20 per ton of 1000 lbs, delivered on cars or bosts. It is in its crude state, and farmers in want had better order early, so they can prepare it for fall seeding. There is nothing in this gueno but the pure fish with the oil extracted (which is said by all chemists to be no fortilizer.) I can refer to those I sold it to last spring, most of whom have already sent in their orders for more to use on their wheat.
